CARFIELD PUTS CLAIM ON HIGHER COAL PRICES

OFFICIAL ORDERS LIMIT CITY BUSINESS TO 9 HOUR SCHEDULE; BECOMES EFFECTIVE MONDAY

COAL RULING CAN BE ANNULLED ONLY ON ACTION OF ADVISORY BOARD; FUEL ADMINISTRATOR SULLIVAN TO HAVE QUARTERS IN MAY- OR'S OFFICE.

Official orders limiting 75 percent of the business places in Janesville to a 9-hour daily operating schedule until cancelled by the city's advisory coal board will go into effect at 12:01 a. m. Monday under final plans adopted by the board and issued today by Fuel Administrator W. B. Sullivan.

In enforcing the restrictions the board believes little hardship will be worked upon any individual or business place and yet will effect a great conservation of fuel. The orders were constructed with a view to avoiding any undue suffering for anyone.

The order has been construed by Fuel Administrator Sullivan so that practically all questions as to closing hours which may arise may be quickly answered. Beginning Monday and continuing throughout the existing emergency he will make his headquarters at the mayor's office in the city hall—Bell phone No. 262, Rock County Court house, second floor.

Coal Board Statement

The following statement was given out this morning by the city coal board:

"As each day brings no indication that the coal strike will be settled in the near future, and as each day passes without bituminous coal being mined, the local situation grows more serious in aspect.

Even if the striking miners returned to work immediately it would take months to resume normal operations and obtain normal supplies. This board has made a careful survey of the coal on hand. It has attempted to arrange a system of distribution which will assure comfort for all.

The board is intended to conserve every pound of coal possible. It does not wish to see any business place close its doors. It is not a board of restriction, but a board of conservation.

"The authority of the fuel administrator is plain. He will enforce both the government and board's rules for handling the situation. He needs the co-operation of every citizen. He will be backed to the limit by this board.

"The local coal dealers have assured the board that they will co-operate in the distribution of coal under the regulations laid out by this board, and it is the duty of all citizens to do their part, as well as an advantage to the citizens to lend every possible aid in carrying out these regulations.

"This board believes that every one will conserve fuel and light to the fullest extent at this time, and that much suffering, especially on the part of elderly persons and babies, will be relieved later when our coal supply diminishes. At least every attempt should be made to visualize a condition which CAN result if the coal strikes continues for any length of time.

"This board feels that the household should be protected first under all circumstances. If any household will use every effort to conserve fuel, a great deal can be done toward aiding this board.

"If it is necessary to shut down businesses, men are going to be thrown out of work; and men without wages are going to suffer. For hunger along with their families. Every pound of coal that can be saved in homes and business places will keep the industries going that much longer.

"This board is not composed of alarmists, but it does feel that a sensible, safe control of business and industry, along with equitable distribution of coal, is the only way to keep this city reasonably free from a coal famine for several weeks. It is with this desire before them that the members submit this statement."

Paris, Dec. 6.—The military class of 1920 will be called to the colors late in February. The class of 1921 will be liberated, the second fortnight in April, according to newspapers here.

Empress Eugenie Plucks Withered Flowers in Paris

Paris, Dec. 6.—With bowed head and with face of infinite sadness, a modestly dressed old woman was seen walking through the Tuilleries gardens today. As she walked she would stop to pluck autumn flowers, seared and blasted by the cold, but no more fragrant than the flowers of the morning. She was wearing a long, dark, heavy coat, and a single maid, unheeded by the uniformed representative of the law.

It was the once proud Empress Eugenie, the bowed head, the weight of 93 winters, thus plucked withered flowers from a garden that was once hers. She was revisiting a scene, recalling all the happiness, sorrow, and terror which came to her during the years she was the chief jewel of the old imperial crown.

Empress Eugenie left France on July 23, 1914, the fateful day when the haughty Austria sent an ultimatum to Serbia which was destined to dismember realms and change the whole face of history.

STATE DEPARTMENT INVESTIGATES WHO FURNISHED BAIL

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT HAS NOT CHANGED AT-TITUDE IN CASE.

HANSEN IS NAMED
Friend of Consular Agent Mentioned as Securing $500
Bonds.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The American government has not changed its attitude on the Jenkins case and had no part in obtaining his release on bail, Secretary Lansing declared today in denying rumors that the state department had unofficially "passed the word" to the embassy in Mexico City to see that the consular agent was liberated on bond.

The state department was said, however, to have been advised officially that Jenkins was released on bail. It received word today that Jenkins himself did not know until after he was liberated that bond was furnished and that he is conducting an investigation on his own account to determine who was responsible for his liberation.

Officials are quiet. Officials refused to comment on reports current here that J. Walter Hansen, who furnished the $500 bond, was acting for Luis Cabrera, a Cuban agent. They are awaiting reports on this from the American embassy at Mexico City.

On the heels of the report of Jenkins' release, news dispatches were received from Mexico City that a check for $500 bail bond had been deposited with the civil authorities in Puebla by J. Walter Hansen, a friend of the consular agent. Later dispatches said the bond was placed without Jenkins' knowledge and that he was attempting to re-enter the prison and avoid unconditional liberty.

Other officials said Eduardo Mestres, a Cuban agent, had been arrested by American Consul Agent Jenkins, had refused the charges that they and four others were guilty of treason for defending Jenkins against charges brought by Governor Cabrera, of Puebla.

Carranza Calls Conference. It also was said that President Carranza called a conference of the state governors in Mexico for December 20.

Combined today with the public's relief over the president's improved health was a feeling in Washington that the tension in the Mexican relations had been slackened by the release of Jenkins.

Speculation and rumor over the president's health were exploded by the favorable report from his doctor, Dr. J. J. Moore, who said that the president was in good health and was able to take his usual exercise.

Private advices received here today from the Mexican capital said that the president was in good health and was able to take his usual exercise.

MOORE TAKES NO ACTION TO KEEP HIGHWAYS OPEN

Declares That Necessary Machinery and Men Are Not Available.

No action to keep the trunk highways of Rock county open during this winter so as to provide means of transportation to farmers and others had been contemplated by Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore up to this morning when he was informed by a representative of this newspaper. However, after the highway situation caused by the fuel shortage was placed before him, he expressed his willingness to use his efforts and authority to keep them free of snow.

Without funds, with no machinery at his disposal for clearing roads of snow, and with his force of 100 men discharged for the winter, Commissioner Moore expressed his opinion that the only method which might be followed would be through a system of neighborhood cooperation whereby farmers would be made to clear their own roads.

It would be the only practical idea, in his mind, because in this manner the people most directly affected by blocked roads would be called upon to give aid. It would not be his purpose to have the farmers do the clearing, but to have them do it for a definite sum—mentioned $1 an hour—for their labor.

Would Use Shovels. Shovels would necessarily be the implements used, according to Mr. Moore. This would be necessitated by the fact that the county does not have any snow machinery, and in the second because the commissioner believes that there is not a plow on the market now properly do the work.

While there are some plows made costing about $200 which can be attached to the front of a 5-ton automobile, Mr. Moore said, they are not practical enough to warrant purchase. He said that he would much like to see some manufacturer get out a rotary plow which could be attached to a truck, none of which has yet been invented.

It would be next to impossible, in his opinion, for the county to get the country to shovel snow. Those who are next to impossible, in his opinion, for the county to get the country to shovel snow.

Through various contractors, who are earning more money than road laborers could make and under more comfortable conditions.

In speaking about funds, the commissioner said that he would not hesitate to ask the county to raise money for money, but that he cannot do this before the next meeting of the board in January. In the meantime, he said, he would do the best he could to keep the county as free from snow as possible.

This sum would more than pay for the shoveling of the roads, he estimated at about $1,000, but until it comes he can do nothing. He does not contemplate, however, that the county will raise much road clearing before January.

Looks to State Aid. Aid might be procured from the state highway commission to keep county roads open, Mr. Moore said. It is his expectation that at any time now, anyway, the state body will call for the highway commission to take some action to keep roads clear because of the fuel shortage and railroad operation. A concerted movement to keep the roads open and a public sentiment to become aroused to the need of open roads.

Those roads which come under the jurisdiction of the highway commission are under the jurisdiction of the county commission are:

Route 10, Beloit-Egberton; route 26, Egberton-Oxford-Hamover-Janesville to Delavan; route 31, Beloit, east to Clinton to county line; route 26, Janesville to Waubesa and the line running from Milton northward to Whitewater. In addition it is possible that some action would be taken on the Milwaukee road to the north end of the county.

Running through Monroe from Broadhead but which would first need the sanction of the county board. Inasmuch as they are not under the jurisdiction of the county commission.

George Woodruff, member of the county board, said that he was in the morning when this morning in regard to keeping the roads open said that his committee would render every aid to the highway commission in keeping the highways open. He strongly advocated that such steps be taken as of imminent importance under the circumstances and said that he would keep in touch with Mr. Moore in an effort to provide the best methods.

Son Dies of Injuries Inflicted By Father with Axe

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 6.—Daniel Strong, aged 12 years, died today from injuries received Tuesday night when his father, John Strong, attacked the family with an axe, killing Mrs. Strong and the oldest daughter and then committing suicide.

Time to Revive Liberals
And Conservatives Refuted. Manchester, Eng., Dec. 6.—Premier Lloyd George, speaking before the House of Commons today, totally rejected the suggestion that the time had arrived for a renewal of party distinctions by the liberals and conservatives.

Victory Buttons to Be Given
To All Persons in Navy. Washington, Dec. 6.—Victory buttons will be issued by the navy department to all persons who served in the reserve or regular navy during the war. Announcement was made by the department today that distribution of the buttons, which are of bronze with an appropriate design, would begin at once.

Keep the Highways Open

Right now is the time to make arrangements to keep the main highways of Rock county open for traffic. If the highway commissioner has made no move up to this time, he should bestir himself at once.

The day has gone when country roads are to remain partially unused because of heavy snow. We have passed that era and have entered one in which progress demands we bring closer to business centers the man who lives in the rural districts.

Last winter sorrowing and suffering resulted from the main highways being clogged with snow. We were in the throes of a frightful epidemic which claimed hundreds of victims. Physicians worked day and night to relieve suffering and save the lives of those afflicted. The flu epidemic took hundreds and of that number many perhaps were lost because quick medical attention could not be administered. Physicians were unable to make their rounds of calls because they could not drive their motor cars through snow banks and they could not afford to waste the time needed to travel with horse-drawn rigs.

That is, but one phase of the situation. In these days of strikes, shortage of fuel and other conditions which have changed the whole system of transacting business, the man in the rural communities must be enabled to rely upon his own resources to bring his products to market and to obtain those necessities he needs to maintain his family and his farm. The motor truck is relieving the railroads of a great burden in handling part of the freight and express shipments which must reach the farmer. Railroads in the last few days have taken off several trains. If the coal strike continues, and there is no indications which point to a quick settlement, more trains will be removed from service. That means that not only will the man in the city lose business and suffer but that the man in the country will be similarly affected.

Highway Commissioner Moore in an interview with a Gazette reporter today declares that he is aware that something should be done to keep the highways open but that he is powerless to do so. He claims he cannot get machinery necessary to do the work. That men cannot be procured and that the only possible way to open up the roads is to have the farmers get out with shovels and clear a path by hand.

The Gazette called State Highway Commissioner Hirst on the telephone immediately upon hearing Commissioner Moore's statement that machinery was not available and was told by the state commissioner that there were many kinds of road clearing machinery which work successfully and which could be procured.

Commissioner Moore holds the opinion that nothing can be done until the county board meets in January. We should not wait another day to start the machinery in motion to carry out some definite plan to keep the highways open for traffic. There is little doubt but that the farmers as well as the city dwellers will get right back to a movement to aid Mr. Moore to get financial aid to carry on this much needed work.

We believe that the county board would be willing to meet in special session to provide funds to carry on the work.

The Gazette has written to the state highway commission at Madison, asking for information about the machinery necessary to keep the highways open. This information perhaps will be at hand within a day or two and Mr. Moore and the highway committee of the county board or the supervisors can have access to it. Those gentlemen also can have any aid needed in giving publicity to a campaign for open highways in the winter time.

We repeat that now is the time to take immediate action. If it had been taken earlier in the season we would have been prepared, but inasmuch as we have not made the necessary steps, the best we can do now is to get into motion. Mr. Moore will find plenty of sentiment back of the movement, we can assure him of that. Any person who appreciates the necessity for discarding the methods of 25 years ago for those which must be used today will agree that Rock county highways must be kept open winter and summer.

MOTHER AND BROTHER OF MAUD TABOR HELD

Lawton, Mich., Dec. 6.—County Prosecutor Adams today took action to free Maud Tabor and Alexander Berkman from Ellis Island on bail will be made Monday if their writ of habeas corpus are dismissed by Federal Judge May. Their counsel, Harry Weinberger, announced today.

While both his clients are ready to be set free, Weinberger said that he would pay their own expenses and select their own method of going, Weinberger said they have authorized him to carry the case to the United States supreme court, if necessary, his efforts to prove that their deportation would be illegal.

They do not want to be kicked out of the country in steerage," he said.

Anderson, Early Settled
In East Koshkonong, Dies. Stoughton, Dec. 6.—Nicholas Anderson, former member of the Wisconsin legislature and until recently an alderman, died yesterday. Mr. Anderson was an early settler of the East Koshkonong district, his father having owned much land in that vicinity.

CONFLAGRATION AT SAMSON PROVES TO BE ONLY BON-FIRE

Chief Con. Murphy and his aides were wondering today who was responsible for the "still" alarm which called them out at 1 o'clock this morning to a bonfire at the Samson plant. A thousand feet of hose was laid and the blaze was put out before it was finally learned that the fire had started in a shed used to store a strip of ground preparatory to excavation.

New Precedent Is Made by Wilson in Signing With Pencil

Washington, Dec. 6.—President Wilson transacted some official business today, including the signing of a number of pardon warrants and a bill to increase the pay of the police in the District of Columbia.

In signing the measures, the president used an indelible pencil because of the difficulty of getting the pen in a ready position. This was the first time in the history of the nation, it was said at the white house that the official documents in parchment had not been signed with ink.

Lieutenant Governor to Run for Second Term

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6.—J. H. Gov. Thomas Frankson, St. Paul, serving his second term, today filed papers for the republican nomination for governor, subject to the primary election next June.

Only one other candidate, Oscar Arnesen, seeking the nomination for lieutenant governor, has filed for a state office race.

R. R. OWES BILLS
All Bituminous Mines to Close in Week If Payment Is Not Made.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Not one cent can be added to the price of coal to finance any increase in the wages of miners, Fuel Administrator Garfield has proposed that miners and operators in that state compromise on the southern railroads in order to pay for the men. Dr. Garfield indicated that the government would interpose no objection if the increase was given without advancing coal prices.

He added that his position was absolutely unchanged from that taken in the 20th century when he was in the cabinet. Dr. Garfield explained then, in suggesting the 14 percent advance, which the miners promptly rejected, that he was not making any scales, and had no authority to do so. He indicated that the increase suggested was merely that which the operators were willing to give without advancing the price of coal which the government has fixed.

R. R. Must Pay Up. All bituminous coal mines now in operation must close within a week, unless the railroad administration pays for the coal it has confiscated or diverted, said a statement today by the American Wholesale Coal Association.

The association said the railroad administration had refused to pay for the coal, and that it was ordered that had been fixed by Fuel Administrator Garfield, and that Dr. Garfield had refused to change his price ruling.

Train Service Cut. Chicago, Dec. 6.—Drastic curtailment of passenger train service throughout the country was ordered today by the railroad directors taking virtually the same action that days ago by the central, north and southwestern directors. Today's action was ordered as a fuel conservation measure.

Additional industries as fuel were closed down or had given notice that they would close. At Chicago a six-hour day beginning Monday was decreed and it was predicted that a few days' strike would force a four-hour day.

Only in isolated instances and in small groups were miners reported to be working. In the case of the Mississippi River for several days, urgency of pleas for fuel apparently had diminished today.

All over Nebraska, high schools were closed and it was said it was not probable that the University of Nebraska would close.

Canadian coal shipments some-what lessened in the situation in the far northwest.

On the other side of the continent New York City's conservation efforts in the coal situation were being carried on by the city's conservation committee, which also is working to conserve coal.

The conference of governors of 10 states, which was held in St. Paul, today had been postponed indefinitely.

North Dakota mines may be taken over and operated in the winter by the governor after July 1, next, under a law passed by a special session of the legislature last year. The measure, which also extends to other utilities, failed to become effective immediately because the lower house failed to muster a two-thirds majority in its favor.

The Home Missionary. By Elizabeth Mateer. Peggy Carroll was sure of one thing when she graduated from college; she would not teach school.

But in the middle of the summer came an offer to teach in a mission school in the south. Of all callings that was the farthest from her mind. But Peggy was a girl to whom novelty and adventure appealed; to the amazement of her friends she accepted.

Arriving at the school, she found instead of the crude, poorly clad specimens she had expected, a group of healthy, capable, mountain beauties clothed in blue gingham uniforms and armed with a determination to learn that was quite new to her. In place of feeling sorry for herself, she wondered how anyone so incompetent as Peggy Carroll had come to think she could teach these wide-awake girls.

By the end of the year she had learned much more than she had taught. She had become so attached to the girls that she decided to visit their homes.

After a two weeks' horseback trip through the mountains, she became a community worker in a little mountain neighborhood. Her duties were as varied as the life of the people. One day she might ride 10 miles to see a sick woman; the next day ride 10 in another direction to buy supplies for the community.

The next plan of church entertainment, or teach a Sunday school class. The sympathy of her friends in the mission field often came in the form of simple mountain people's genuinest unknown to her frivolous college friends.

For the earnest girl who is looking for work which will demand her whole self and who recognizes other compensations than money, the mission field offers a wide range of choice. There are openings for teachers, nurses, matrons, principals, secretaries, and executives.

Each church denomination has its stations everywhere from Alaska and Porto Rico to the slums of our large cities.

Sanitary Engineer. By R. S. Alexander. Millburg was dirty. It was unhealthy. It had no sewerage system. Its water supply was impure. Dick Reed hated all these faults in his home town and decided that when he grew up he was going to remedy them. He told his father about his decision.

"So you're going to be a Sanitary Engineer," said his father.

"Yes, I am," said Dick. "I thought about it that way but he now began to do so. He wrote to several big technical schools for information. He subscribed for the 'Engineering News', 220 Broadway, N. Y., and the 'Engineering Magazine', 140 Nassau street, N. Y. He read two books, 'Sanitary Engineering' by Powell.

He found out that a sanitary engineer should know Mathematics, Physics, and Chemistry. So he specialized in these subjects as far as possible in high school. Then he went to a large technical school and took a course in sanitary engineering. When he graduated he got a job as Assistant Superintendent of a filtration plant in a medium sized city.

Shortly afterwards a new mayor in charge decided to clean up the place believing in patronizing home industries. He made Dick Municipal Engineer. During his four years as Municipal Engineer, Dick had designed and constructed a sewerage system for the city, designed and installed a new system for purifying the city water, and he had planned and supervised the construction of the city's water works.

For the improving of living conditions in the city. Since he took office, the death rate from pneumonia and influenza has been reduced to almost nothing and health conditions throughout the city are better than ever. In the term of office will soon be ended and then, if he should not be re-appointed, he will be ready to go to some other city or to carry on the work of the state or federal government in investigating and supervising health conditions, or he may set up for himself as a consulting sanitary engineer.

George Esser, state treasurer and local president of the order of Eagles, attended a conference of state officers at Oshkosh yesterday. The grand and state officers had a conference in the grand worthy president's office. The convention of the Eagles was discussed and it was decided to hold the next annual convention in June at Oshkosh because that city is the home of the state president. The membership drive and the by-laws were discussed and the by-laws were amended. The membership drive will be greatly increased.

A special meeting of the local order, Janesville Aerie, No. 254, will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the club rooms. APOLLO CONCERT PROGRAM CHANGED

Due to a change in plans the concert of Dec. 13 of the Apollo club will be given by George Rasely, tenor, instead of Miss Myra Sharlow, as first announced. Mr. Rasely is playing the leading part in "Chu Chin Chow," and only through special arrangement was it allowed to give a half a dozen recitals. These are planned for Minneapolis, Madison, Janesville, and St. Louis; where the other two will be given in not known. Mr. Rasely is 27 years old, of a winning and forceful personality. The program planned gives a particularly satisfying grouping of the old and new music. Of especial interest will be the difficult aria "La Reva" from Manon, Massenet.

Rural School News

The third and probably most successful community meeting of joint district 2 and 6, La Prairie and Turtle, was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Meyers. Sixty people of the district attended. A musical program was given including the following numbers: solos; piano and Mrs. Bennett, Shoppers; piano solo, Harold Power, Belmont; solo, Miss Esther Doherty, Belmont.

R. K. Overton led the community singing which is always a regular part of the program. Refreshments were served late in the evening.

Miss Janet McAdams, the teacher, is the president of the district society. This is the second year that this district has had the society which affords pleasure and instruction to the folks of the district.

Miss Pearl Trambille has been secured to teach in the Whitman school, which Miss Edith Kemp is soon to give up.

Practice for the Christmas programs has been begun in many of the rural schools.

December educational bulletins have been mailed out to the teachers and school board members.

Miss Marion Moore, Brookhead, is writing on examinations at the county superintendent's office today.

Miss Vera Evans was a visitor at the court house today.

At a box social recently held in joint districts No. 2 and 6, La Prairie and Turtle, $35 was raised. The money will be spent for a victrola, stand, and records.

Pneumonia Left Boy Weak and Sickly

Parents Were Almost Hopeless, But He Is Now Well and Strong.

"Our little boy's health was so poor we were afraid we were going to lose him. He is 10 years old, and has weak lungs ever since he was eight months old, caused by pneumonia. We have been very careful with him and doctored him continually, but we had almost despaired of ever having a strong, well boy.

"But since giving him Milks Emulsion all his trouble is gone, and he is in perfect health."—Mrs. G. W. Smiley, 20 Maple St., Dayton, O.

"For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find Milks Emulsion the thing they have always sought. Most children like to take it because unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good."

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and cathartics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose weakness has weakened, and in a powerful resistance the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in a few days.

This is the only solid emulsion made and palatable that is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are sure to get better under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 50c and 90c per bottle. The Milks Emulsion is sold everywhere.

R. C. ELECTION OF DIRECTORS POSTPONED

Because there was not a quorum to transact business at the annual meeting of the Janesville chapter of the Rock county branch of the Red Cross, the meeting was adjourned, Friday afternoon, and the officers elected last year will serve until a later meeting.

Officers for the Janesville chapter are: I. F. Wortendyke, chairman; George S. Parker, vice-chairman; S. M. Smith, treasurer; Miss Edith L. Alden, secretary; H. S. Lovejoy, Miss Gertrude Cobb, Mrs. W. F. Bosworth, J. F. Wortendyke, P. S. Balnes, George S. Parker, Mrs. Sarah M. Richardson, George E. King, Mrs. J. G. Rexford, T. O. Howe, R. M. Bostwick, J. M. Whitehead, Mrs. Frank Crank, C. L. Field, Mrs. T. C. Grant, Mrs. M. Smith, Joseph Connors, Andrew Gibbons, Mrs. Michael Hayes, Mrs. Edward Hemmings, directors.

LIST OF AUCTIONS IS RAPIDLY DECLINING

The list of auctions is rapidly declining, that for next week, December 8-13 containing only four. Tuesday, William Levay, 8 miles southeast of Evansville, will hold an auction, at which D. F. Finane will be auctioneer. Wednesday there will be two auctions, those of James Crane, route 5, Janesville, with John Ryan auctioneer, and Ben Mapes, Evansville, with D. F. Finane, auctioneer. The last of the auctions will be held Thursday.

During all the years the Ford Motor T One Ton Truck has been on the market, we have never had one complaint of rear axle trouble. We have had no complaints of motor trouble. As the motor and the rear axle are the vital fundamentals in a motor truck, we have the right to conclude that the Ford One Ton Truck has not only met the demands of business, but has done so in a satisfactory and economic way. There is no other evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Ford One Ton Trucks are serving along all industrial and commercial lines. You will find them everywhere. If these statements were not facts, the demand for the Ford One Ton Truck would not be as large as it is, because people are not buying trucks which do not give service. Coupled with the dependability of the Ford One Ton Truck in all classes of usage, comes the economy in operation and maintenance. On the farm, in factory delivery, for the merchant, manufacturer, and contractor, in these days of modern business methods, this worm-driven One Ton Ford Truck has become an actual necessity. Come in and talk it over.

What Is Ragtime?

The famous author and writer, Opie Read, says: "It is the double harmony of tone."

G. A. Shaw says: "Ragtime is to music what cream is to milk." Regardless of what may be the exact and proper definition, the fact remains that ragtime is the most popular music in the world today—the kind that makes the heart throb and the blood sing—that makes the feet shuffle and the mouth pucker—that makes you forget your troubles and worries and feel at peace with the entire universe.

That is the Kind of Music We Teach to any person, anywhere, easily, quickly and thoroughly, regardless of whether you are now a piano player and read music, or whether you don't know one note from another.

This is an age of specialists—the teaching of Ragtime piano playing is quite specialty and in this field we have NO EQUALS and but few imitators.

If Th' Strike Continues

(BY DELL MILTMORE)

When jest a little shaver in th' days o' long ago
Th' luxury o' 'lectric lights th' people didn't know.
An' ev'ry day my mother spent a deal o' time t' clean
An' polish chimneys, trim th' wicks an' then with kerosene
She'd fill th' lamps, a tresome task. An' then besides I know
She worried some for fear o' fire. Those lamps all in a row.

Were worrisome necessities an' daily she would say,
"Be sure t' blow th' lighted match before it's thrown away!"
An' then there was an added risk o' which she never knew.
It bents all what a growin' boy will undertake t' do!
Now when my father told us it was time t' go t' bed
We never thought t' argue for he meant jest what he said!

But often times 'twould happen that my father's bed time call
Jest came when I was readin' most excitin' things o' all
An' so I pulled a sorry face an' trudged upstairs t' bed.
But stories got th' best o' me an' when "Goodnight" was said
I sort o' lived a double life. T'd pile books on a chair
An' then on top I'd set th' lamp—t'day I'd never dare.

An' as the hours went speedin' by, there snuggled up in bed
"Around The World in Eighty Days," or some such stuff I read.
Although t' gain my story's end I'd cautiousness acquire
I wonder that I never set th' bed an' house afire.
I took more risk in balancin' that lamp upon th' chair
Th'n any tightrope artist takes in walkin' high in air.

At other times high midnight dream when some o' us took sick
They'd need things in a hurry. An' it sure would be some trick
T' jump up all excited from a peaceful, dreamless sleep
T' watch they didn't stub their toes an' tumble in a heap
While huntin' up th' matches to light th' lamp an' go
T' find some simple remedy till doctors came, y' know.

An' then one time when I was jest a boy about so high
Th' lamp somehow went floozy an' we all began t' cry.
My mother grabbed it up an' ran an' threw it out th' door
With flames a-burstin' f'm it with peculiar sort o' roar.
The oil lamp had exploded. I c'n hear my mother say
"I've always been afraid that we would be burnt out some day!"

Now if th' strike continues lights will soon be on th' bum
An' candles an' old fashioned lamps will make me sort o' glum.
When down th' country road I come a-ridin' home at night
An' see our house with 'lectric lights a-shinin' nice an' bright
I'm sorry that this blessin' great, so common to my wife
Could not hev been a factor in my mother's daily life.

- An indoor recreation center in which dance and sporting events may be held.
- More parks and playgrounds for use of the entire community.
- Protected ice-skating rinks for children.

SANTO DOMINGO.

In connection with the petition sent to Washington by a group of Spaniards, suggesting that this would be an opportune time for the United States to withdraw its troops from Santo Domingo, the National Geographic society has issued the following bulletin concerning the island republic:

"Geographically, the Island of Haiti, including within its limits the two republics of Santo Domingo and Haiti, is in the class of the most favored of nations, situated on the western continent about midway between its two grand divisions of North and South America and abounding in natural resources," says the bulletin, which is based on a communication from Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, U. S. N.

"The name Haiti, or 'High Island,' is significant of the character of its topography. 'Sire,' once said a British admiral to his king, George the Third, when asked about the island, 'Haiti looks like that,' and he crumpled up a piece of paper and placed it upon the table. A brief description though this may be, it will fit the case. The island is about 400 miles long, 150 miles wide, and is about the size of the State of New York. It is irregular in shape and is intersected by three chains of mountains.

"Historically, Haiti, or Santo Domingo, is the senior of our own country. If we leave out of consideration the legendary reports concerning the visits of the Norsemen to our northern coasts 800 years ago, and we are somewhat indebted to this beautiful island for our own development.

"On Saint Nicholas Day (December 6), 1492, Columbus entered a port at the extreme west end of the Island of Santo Domingo, or, as the whole island was then called by the aborigines, Haiti. The natives themselves called the port Bohio, but Columbus christened it, in honor of the day he was celebrating, Port Saint Nicholas, the name still existing as Saint Nicholas Mole. This date will ever be memorable in the annals of the Haitians as marking the beginning of the history of the island.

"Columbus now called the island Hispaniola in honor of the country which had sent him forth to discover it, and it is to be regretted that this name given by the immortal discoverer has been lost, for its present two names are conflicting and confusing.

"Columbus then determined to build a permanent settlement, and after reconnoitering he selected for this purpose a site on an elevated plain near a spacious bay on the north coast of the island. Here was established the first town in the New World, which was dignified by the name of his queen and patron, Isabella.

"But the course of empire was still south, and soon Santo Domingo City became the center of the colonial activities.

"A little love affair connected with the growth of this city is interesting. One of the Spanish party, Miguel Dias, having gotten into difficulty with an officer, severely wounding him in combat, fled to escape punishment. Finding shelter in an Indian village and being received with much cordiality and hospitality, he in return gave his heart to the young Caguas, who was then governing the tribe. His protestations met with favor, and the young Spaniard found himself the consort of a queen of no mean accomplishments. But he soon wearied of his environment and sighed for his old companions. The queen, seeing his discontent and fearing to lose him, gave him the secret of her vast wealth and, loading him with the precious metal, sent him back to the Spaniards to induce them to return with him and settle in her country. Dias delivered this message to Columbus, who immediately ordered an exploration of that part of the island to ascertain the truth of the Spaniard's report.

"The sequel to this little love affair is also interesting, but most pathetic. Zamacca, after giving her all to her lover, who was thereby promoted to high honors in the colony, being the first alcalde of the new city, was so disheartened by the cruel treatment accorded her people that she fled from civilization and affluence to the wilds of the forests, leaving her two children and still faithful husband to mourn her loss, and was never heard from again.

"From this origin, so casual and domestic, arose the first permanent city of the New World."

WOMEN MAY NOT VOTE.

Seventeen more states must ratify the constitutional amendment giving women the vote, before the woman suffrage law is in effect. And present indications are that the women will have to hustle or they won't get the opportunity of voting for the next president.

Altogether only nineteen states have ratified the amendment. This is one more than half enough. The other seventeen states are taking their own time about voting on the measure, and the race for president may be staged without the assistance of the women.

Not a single southern state—long noted for its chivalry towards women—has ratified the amendment. The west—called broad-minded—hasn't shown up well in this matter compared to the east, several of the western state governors deliberately postponing action and delaying the vote.

Suffrage opponents are fighting hard—harder than those who would see the women vote—and it looks as though some strenuous work must be done or there will be no voting by the women at the next presidential election.

Woman suffrage, like national prohibition, is bound

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

There is no sorrow quite so keen
As that which marks an action mean;
No hurts so sharp, as those which fall
From angry words we can't recall.
Howe'er by foes we are assailed,
There's no disgrace in having failed.
So bitter, when the past we scan,
As having failed to ply the man.

Who once has done a cruel thing
Long afterwards shall feel its sting.
Who once upon life's changing stage
Has wounded in an hour of rage
By blows unfair or dead unkind
His fellow man, shall live to find
That never more is he to claim
His freedom from regret and shame.

Were we to live our lives anew,
How many things we would not do,
Could we this journey brief remake,
How many guinea's we'd scorn to take,
How many joys we'd sacrifice
Rather than pay their bitter price,
Man's greatest shame in every test
Is having failed to be his best.

Man's conscience is a master stern,
As each of us has come to learn,
And he who by some thoughtless deed
Has caused another's heart to bleed
Shall suffer till life runs its course
The keenest anguish of remorse.
With him its memory long will live;
Self cannot so easily forgive.

to come. It may be delayed a trifle, but it can't be stopped. Regardless of what you and I think of the matter, the country is going to permit voting by the women. It is simply a matter of evolution.

THE PUBLIC MUST PAY.

Consider for a moment the railroad situation. Suppose by some chance the president were to hand back the roads to their owners on January 1, with no new legislation in force to regulate or protect them. With only two exceptions the roads have been and are now being operated at a loss, which the government is making up from taxation.

Suppose the railroads were to be handed back in this condition, and the railroad men were to demand further wage increases. What would happen?
With the roads earning too little now to pay present wages, how could they pay more, unless rates were to be greatly increased?

The railroads will presently go back to the stockholders, and then, if deficits continue, receiverships will follow. The public will be compelled to make up the deficits, and any increases in operating expenses must be added to the public's bill.

If the cost of living is to be kept under control, the railroads must be managed with the care demanded of a tight-rope walker.

The scientists are sorry that meteor fell into Lake Michigan because it cost them a chance to study it. But a lot of ordinary individuals are just as well satisfied.

A pearl necklace offered for sale in England is so costly that it has gone begging for a buyer. Have the British profiteers spent their money?

Italy's king will open parliament, not permitting the socialist threats to deter him. If he did, he would show himself less than a king.

Although he has lost an eye as the result of the "ragging" given him in London, "Pussyfoot" Johnson still has his voice.

Their Opinions

We don't care so much to hear what Fuel Administrator Garfield and Director General Hines have to say about the situation as we do to hear how many more tons of coal were dug today than yesterday and we have an idea that the situation depends more upon the digging than the talking. —Wausau Record-Herald.

Up to the present moment Fuel Administrator Garfield has not done anything to retrieve the reputation which he lost when trying to control the coal situation in war time. —Wausau Record-Herald.

CHEFS PROMISE FINE SPREAD FOR SAMSON VISITORS

The chefs who serve the men in the factory and the folks in the offices at the Samson plant are going to spread a meal on the boards at the barracks dining room, next Tuesday which will be long remembered by the members of the Chamber of Commerce and others invited to partake of J. A. Craig's hospitality, according to announcement which comes today from the Samson kitchen.

Plans are being made to entertain between 100 and 150 visitors Tuesday afternoon. Manager Wolk of the Chamber of Commerce is compiling a list of those who will be in attendance. He is desirous of obtaining at once the names of those who have made arrangements to attend the luncheon and look over the Samson plant.

Mr. Craig will provide guides to take the visitors through the plant and to explain the work being carried on. It is hoped that those who make the tour will arrange their affairs so that they can spend the greater part of the afternoon in the plants.

The dinner will be served at 1 o'clock and after any business which is to be transacted by the members' council of the chamber is completed the tour of inspection will be started.

"We welcome the opportunity to show our visitors the plant," said Mr. Craig. "We feel that if they know what we are doing and what we plan to do in Janesville, a closer working relation will exist and the entire community will benefit. The suggestion has been made that the members of the Chamber of Commerce and other business men, especially the younger men to whom I have talked concerning the future of the city, look us over. We are ready to show what we have. We hope that every man who can come will be present at our table Tuesday. Those who are not members of the Chamber of Commerce are invited, providing they make known their intention of attending the luncheon to Mr. Wolk, manager of the chamber at Court street, in time for us to prepare for them."

Roff vs. E. M. Haskins, et al., damage suit for refusal to contract; Peder Olson vs. E. M. Haskins, et al., also a tobacco crop suit; Charles J. Grinnell vs. E. M. Haskins, et al., another tobacco crop suit; Della Mackey against Rockford & Interurban Railway Co., recovery of damages for personal injury; Gurt Hegard, et al., vs. M. J. Noonan, relative to tobacco contract; Mrs. Carle Latta vs. Mrs. Theodore Hahn, rent of farm; and Jentel vs. Chapin.

H. S. PRINCIPAL GETS $4,500 FOR LOST EYE

J. T. Shearor, former principal of the high school here, who lost one eye while in that position, has been awarded $4,500 for the loss of his eye by the supreme court.

Mr. Shearor lost his eye about five years ago. At that time he tried to secure damages for personal injury sustained in an automobile accident, with which he was insured. The company refused to pay it and the case was taken to the circuit court, where Judge Grimm awarded Mr. Shearor $4,500 damages. The case was then appealed to the supreme court by the insurance company, with the result that the decision of Judge Grimm was confirmed.

The attorneys for the insurance company were Sponner and Quaries of the company. Attorneys for Mr. Shearor were Whitehead and Matheson of this city.

CHILDREN TO ENTER W. C. T. U. CONTEST

A silver medal contest will be held at the Baptist church Wednesday evening, Dec. 12, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The junior department of six Sunday schools in the city will each furnish a contestant and add one or two musical numbers to the program.

This is the first of several contests to be given during the year. It is stated that the interest already displayed by scholars, teachers, parents and pastors is of unusual enthusiasm and the spirit of "If I don't get the medal this time I will try again," predominates in the minds of the contestants.

CHRISTMAS CHEER IS TO BE SPREAD BY S. A., CHURCHES, LODGES

Charity associations in the city are at work making out the list of worthy poor people in the city who will be helped in celebrating Christmas. Father Henry Willmann, secretary of the associated charities and member of the charity committee of the Elks, said today that all societies and churches would cooperate in the work that there would be no overlapping in contributions and yet that no poor people would be missed. Father Willmann is making up a list now which he will present to the charities association.

As in a former years the Salvation army will give out baskets of dinner. The kettles will be placed on the corners for two weeks preceding Christmas, thus giving every one in the city a chance to aid in the charity work.

No solicitation for funds through letters to the business people or letters to the homes will be made by the Salvation army this year. Whatever is donated must be done voluntarily. After the Home Service campaign for funds last July the Salvation army said that no solicitation of funds would be made for a year.

Cold weather finds many poor in the city without proper clothing, according to Father Willmann. Those who have clothing, money or funds can bring them to Salvation army headquarters at 101 North Main street. Donations will be accepted for persons who call headquarters.

Every day of the year there are a good many people passing our bank who have some money in their pocket which could easily be saved.

Because this is usually a small sum—only a few dollars perhaps—they think it is not worth while or that the bank would not want to bother with small sums like that.

The money actually lost in this way would make several large fortunes.

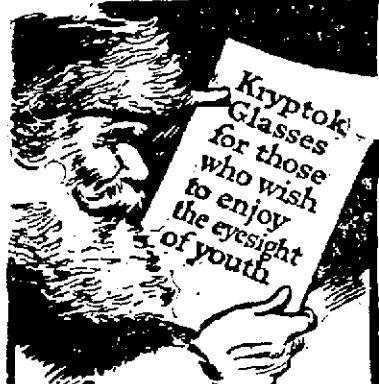

It would indeed be interesting to know what the daily loss in savings amounts to because people fail to see the value of making small deposits as often as they can.

Small deposits are usually easy. Large ones seldom possible. Think it over.

CARPENTIER RESULT BRINGS OUT $320,000 FOR DEMPSEY FIGHT

Paris, Dec. 6.—French sportsmen have offered a purse of $320,000 for a Carpentier-Dempsey contest, to take place in the Pershing Stadium in the outskirts of Paris next July. It was announced today.

Paris was overjoyed by the victory of Georges Carpentier over Joe Beckett in the boxing contest in London, Thursday evening. From the comment it seemed that Paris desires to stage a battle between Jack Dempsey, the American and Carpentier for the world's heavyweight championship.

Al. Decoin, manager of the Wonderland Sporting Club of Paris said today he had sent a cablegram to Dempsey asking him to terms for a twenty round fight with Carpentier on France's national holiday, July 14. Gaston Vidal and Henry Tato, members of Parliament, representing the Athletics of France, said they would secure the Pershing Stadium for the battle.

STAGE ALL READY FOR WILDE'S FIGHT WITH JACK SHARKEY

[By Associated Press.] Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 6.—Jimmy Wilde, Great Britain's fly weight champion, will make his first American appearance here tonight, meeting Jack Sharkey, a rugged New York bantamweight, in a ten-round, no decision contest.

He staged at the Auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 10,000. Indications were that the contest would draw $40,000. Wilde has been guaranteed $11,000.

The little Welsh boxer, who does not hesitate to give away ten pounds to opponents who probably will enter the ring weighing about 100 pounds. Sharkey has agreed to scale 110 pounds at 7 p. m. He probably will enter the ring three hours later weighing about 115 pounds.

Wilde a Good Fighter Wilde, pale, and amiable in appearance, is both a boxer and a fighter. He can hit from almost any angle and is a master at the art of pointing with his head and drawing an opponent on, making him miss with the next shot.

The British boxer has been on the ground ten days training for the match and is reported to be in splendid condition. He established training quarters at a suburb and playing golf formed a large part of his conditioning.

Sharkey, who has boxed the best bantamweights in this country, also finished his training here and assured his admirers he would be able to scale the stipulated 110 pounds without weakening himself. The New Yorker is on the short end of the betting, with Wilde's admirers offering 2 to 1.

Milton News

[By Gazette Correspondent.]

Milton, Dec. 6.—The Philomathesian society of Milton college held its annual oyster supper in the dining room of the S. D. E. church Saturday evening, Nov. 29. The supper was served by the domestic science department of the high school under the supervision of Miss Eleanor Douglas, teacher of domestic science.

The menu following the Philomathesian tradition was chiefly made up of oyster dishes. The tables were decorated with red and gold, the colors of the society. The oyster supper is a 'stag' party in honor of the new members taken into the organization.

Marquette.—The new edifice of the Reformed church of Porterfield is practically completed and will be dedicated Dec. 28, the officiating clergyman to be Reverend Euehrer of Green Bay. The address in honor of the occasion will be delivered by Reverend Beck of Colorado. The congregation for a year past has been holding its services in the new state bank at Porterfield. It is perhaps the only religious congregation in the United States that has held its services continuously in a bank building. As no business is transacted in the bank Sundays or evenings, the officials permitted the services there until the church was completed.

Appleton.—Seven of the nine mills in the Kimberly-Clark and Neenah Paper company group, which observed Safety Week from Nov. 23 to 29, came through with no lost time accidents. Those which did not attain a clear record were at Kimberly and Niagara. However, the accidents were not serious. It is planned to make Safety Week an annual event. November, 1919, shows a 75 percent improvement over November, 1918, in number of accidents.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My father is nearly seventy and my mother is nearly dead but a short time. Now he speaks of marrying again. If he does, I shall leave home at once, never to return. I am used to my father and mother. Don't you think I am right?

I would like to have my mother's hair made into a switch. Don't you think this would be all right?

Everyone is entitled to her own opinion, of course. I do think, however, that you should stand by your father, even if he does act unwisely. It seems to me strange that he wants to marry again, but since he does, I believe that you should make the best of the situation and try to become a true and helpful friend to your stepmother.

If your mother saved her combings it would be reasonable to have them made into a switch. But if her hair was cut because of her illness I cannot imagine your wanting to wear the hair it would seem too sacred. This also is a matter of opinion.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have married a young lady after knowing her about nine years. We have not been married a year and already she asks me why I am not like other men. She wants to know why I don't boss her around, argue with her. When I do say a word or make a suggestion out of the way. She would rather have me curse, just like many other girls nowadays.

Although I know she loves me and I love her in return she tells me not to bother her. What can I do to keep my self-respect?

To keep your self-respect, do what you yourself think is right. If your wife is insulting take her remarks with dignity. In time, I can assure you, your refined manner and poised will make her feel ashamed and gradually she will be less cruel in her remarks. Do not give up to her and let her conquer your spirit, because if you do your life with her will be very unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen and am going with a fellow of eighteen. I love him dearly and like to be with him all the time. He does not think I love him as much as I do. We are going to be engaged two months after Christmas.

We were speaking of Christmas presents. He asked me what I wanted. I wanted a coat, or the money. I am leaving the judgment to you.

None of his suggestions are appropriate since you are not engaged. I think however, that of the three the wrist watch would be best. The money is entirely out of the question, and also the coat.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When a boy brings a girl a box of candy, when is the proper time to open it? (2) Does it show disrespect for the girl if a young man calls her on the telephone and asks for a "date" that evening?

ANNA F.
(1) She should open the candy when they are seated and ready to enjoy the evening.

(2) I do not think it shows disrespect for a young man to telephone to a girl and ask her for an engagement the same evening. She may be sure when he does this that he really wants to come. When arrangements are made, the girl should be sure that she is apt to come up which would be more agreeable, and the engagement is kept from a sense of duty.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

My mother-in-law (may the gods give me patience! How long, how long is she going to stay in this little four-room flat of ours!) said to me today, as she sat placidly sewing buttons on Jim's shirts, "Ann, dear, I think if you would give in about this one thing—your work—it would bring you, as well as James, a great deal of happiness." "Why do you think so?" I asked, frowning, although I am twenty-four and mother Salsbery is fifty-one, like a kindergarten teacher trying to develop a backward pupil. "Because a true woman always finds her greatest joy in unselfishness."

"That depends," I answered, passing over the "true woman" part, "on what you call unselfishness." If by continuing my writing, for which the "Messenger" is beginning to pay me well, I had to neglect my mother and my husband keeping it up solely to please my vanity or buy luxuries for myself, I should see justice in what you say. But when the only object is to enter to a prejudice of Jim's—

"My dear!" interrupted Mother Salsbery, honestly shocked. "He only wishes to protect and spare you!"

"I don't wish to be protected and spared," I retorted warmly. "I wish to develop myself, to live my own life. You might as well say parents are justified in preventing their children from marrying on the ground that they are spoiling them for life. A child has a right to buy his own experiences, with pain and sacrifice, if necessary. I have heard parents say, 'Oh, my dear, don't do anything she wants. We humor her in all her wishes. Why should she want to marry and leave us?' How can you judge what she really longs for? How dare they call imprisonment protection? Why is it 'selfishness' when I carry out my wishes and not 'selfishness' when Jim carries out his?"

"By her marriage vow a wife promises to love, honor and obey her husband, and to be guided by his will and his wishes. Submission is a beautiful trait. Most women would give anything to have the love and strength James puts at your disposal," said my mother-in-law, hardly able to wrestle successfully with the main issue.

"In that case," I returned, "there would be no question of unselfishness. Such women would be getting just what they wanted. There would be no 'giving in,' no 'submission.' There is a time to 'give in' and a time not to. The mere act of 'giving in' brings gain to no one. More lives have been wrecked by submission than by opposition. The time to 'give in' is when, by doing so, somebody's character is strengthened or some constructive principle is served."

"In our case my 'giving in' would represent tyrannical selfishness on Jim's part and loss of character on mine. I would be giving in simply to have peace—to end an uncomfortable situation, just as a foolish mother hands her child the candy to quiet it, no matter what trouble it means afterward!"

There was an uncomfortable pause. Jim's mother bit off her tongue with the air of one who, after the struggle, is resigned to disaster. "Tyrannical selfishness" is a strong term, my dear," she fired at a last despairing shot. "You may live to see the day when you would gladly exchange a very questionable freedom for James' tyrannical selfishness. Disgrace is harder to bear than a husband's tyranny."

"Did she intend a reference to Jim?" Has Jim—

I don't know. When I looked questioningly at her she rose abruptly and left the room. Things are miserable. I am weary and bewildered. (To be continued.)

Noenah.—Noenah is to have a fresh air school for tubercular children. Following a recommendation made by the school nurse, the school board has granted a special committee power to purchase equipment necessary and hire and instructor.

METHOD OF REPRODUCTION

Gives New Beauty to Record Music

"TONES that are reproduced truer, finer, sweeter." "Music that in both spirit and letter is restated with greater beauty." "All records transcribed with greater fidelity."

Golden opinions like these are showered on The Brunswick by its hearers everywhere. And why?

Because with its many other betterments, it has an exclusive new method of Reproduction.

Method of Reproduction

This Method of Reproduction for which the Brunswick Phonograph is famous, includes two scientific features—the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier.

The Ultona

The Ultona—a new day creation—is a tone arm adaptable to playing any make of record.

With but a slight turn of the hand, it presents the correct weight, precise diaphragm and proper needle.

The Tone Amplifier

The Tone Amplifier is the vibrant all-wood throat of the Brunswick.

It is oval in shape and made entirely of rare moulded hollywood.

By it, sound waves are projected into full rounded tones. Tones that are richer and more natural.

Brunswick Superiority is Apparent

A complete demonstration will prove to you the merits of this super-instrument. Come in today.

...The... Devil's Own A Romance of the Backhauled War BY KATHLEEN PARISH Author of "Contraband," "Shen of the Irish Brigade," "When Wilderness Was King," etc.

Copyrighted A. C. McClure & Co.

She glanced about into the gloom of the surrounding woods, her hesitancy answering me.

"It is not a pleasant prospect I admit, but there is no possible danger. Kirby has gone, beyond all question, but I wish to learn if I can the direction he has taken. All this must have happened only short time ago, while we were at the cabin. The keelboat can scarcely be entirely out of sight yet on either river if we could only find a place to offer us a wide view."

"But could I not go with you?" "Hardly with me, for I intend to swim the creek and try to reach the pit at the mouth of the Illinois, from where I can see up and down the Mississippi. I am going to send Sam back through the woods there and have him climb that ridge. From the top he ought to have a good view up the valley of the Illinois. I suppose you might go with him."

"Ah, sure, with you, missus," broke in the negro pleadingly. "Ah, ain't peckackly fer ter go 'long but Ah's an ol' man an' Ah reckon as how a young gal wud likely fer ter see morn' Ah wud care like Ah's done los' my glasses."

"Yes, Sam, I will," she said, glancing up into my eyes and holding out her hand. "You wish me to, do you not?"

"I think it will be fully as well. You still retain the pistol?"

"Yes, I do," she responded, and without delaying my departure longer I lowered myself into the water and swam toward the opposite shore, creeping forth and up the bank at the underbrush. I found a rough passage for the first few rods, being obliged to almost crawl under the close growth and unable to see a yard in advance. But this ended suddenly at the edge of the sand flat, with the converging waters of the two rivers visible just beyond. My view from here was narrow, however, by high ridges on both sides, and with a desire not to lose sight of any chance, I followed the line of forest until able to climb the slope, and thus attain the crest of the bluff.

From this vantage point the view was extensive, both up and down the big river, as well as across to the opposite bank. Along that entire surface but three objects met my gaze—a small island, green with trees, seemingly anchored just beyond the mouth of the Illinois; a lumbering barge almost opposite me, clearly outlined against the distant shore, and barely moving with the current; and far away below a thin smudge of smoke, arising from behind a headland, as though curling upward from the stack of some steamer. I felt no doubt but what this was the stolen keelboat, speeding toward St. Louis.

This struck me as the most reasonable course to pursue—to work our way quietly up the Illinois by night, keeping close in shore to avoid any passing steamer, until we arrived close to Beardstown. Undoubtedly there were blacks in the town, both slaves and free negroes, with whom Sam could easily establish an acquaintance. By this means we would soon be able to identify that particular preacher into whose care I hoped to confide Rene. Of course the girl might refuse to enter into the game, might decline to assume the role assigned her, however innocent I intended it to be—indeed I felt convinced she would meet the suggestion with indignation. But why worry about that now? Let this be kept as a last resort, here was no necessity for me to even mention this part of my plan until after our approach to Beardstown; then the necessity of our going forward with it might be so apparent she could not refuse to carry on her part. With this point settled in my own mind I felt ready to rejoin the others.

I must have been absent in the neighborhood of two hours, and they had returned to the bank of the creek some time in advance of me. As I appeared at the edge of the wood, Sam halted, offering to row the boat across.

"All right," I replied, confident we were alone. "It will save me another waiting. You saw nothing?"

"No, sah; leastways not much. We could see up the Illinois morn' ten mile, Ah reckon, but dar da'n't no boat nowher, 'ceptin' an ol' scow tied up to de bank."

"I thought so. The keelboat has gone down the Mississippi."

"Yer don't saw her, sah?"

"I saw her smoke; she was hidden by a big bend just below. Don't sit there staring at me, come across."

Rene greeted me with a smile as I scrambled up on the slippery log, and asked a number of questions. I answered these as best I could and then explained, so far as I deemed it desirable, the general nature of the plans I had made. The Illinois route offered the only hope, and we decided to venture it, although Rene pleaded earnestly that she and the negro be permitted to go on alone. To this suggestion, however, I would not consent, and the girl finally yielded her reluctant permission for me to accompany them until she could be safely in the care of white friends.

I knew her real thought was elsewhere—with those two in Kirby's hands, already well on their way to St. Louis. Try as she would, she was unable to banish from her mind the conception that she was largely to blame for their misfortune, or submerge the idea that it was cowardly in her to seek escape, while leaving them in such peril. I lingered, talking with her for some time after Sam had fallen asleep, yet the only result was the bringing of tears to her eyes and a reluctantly given pledge that she would do whatever I believed to be best and right. She appeared so tired and worn that I left her at last in the little glade where we had found refuge, hoping she might fall asleep. I doubt if she did, although I dozed irregularly, my back against a tree, and it was already growing dusk when I came forth again from her retreat and joined us in a hastily prepared meal.

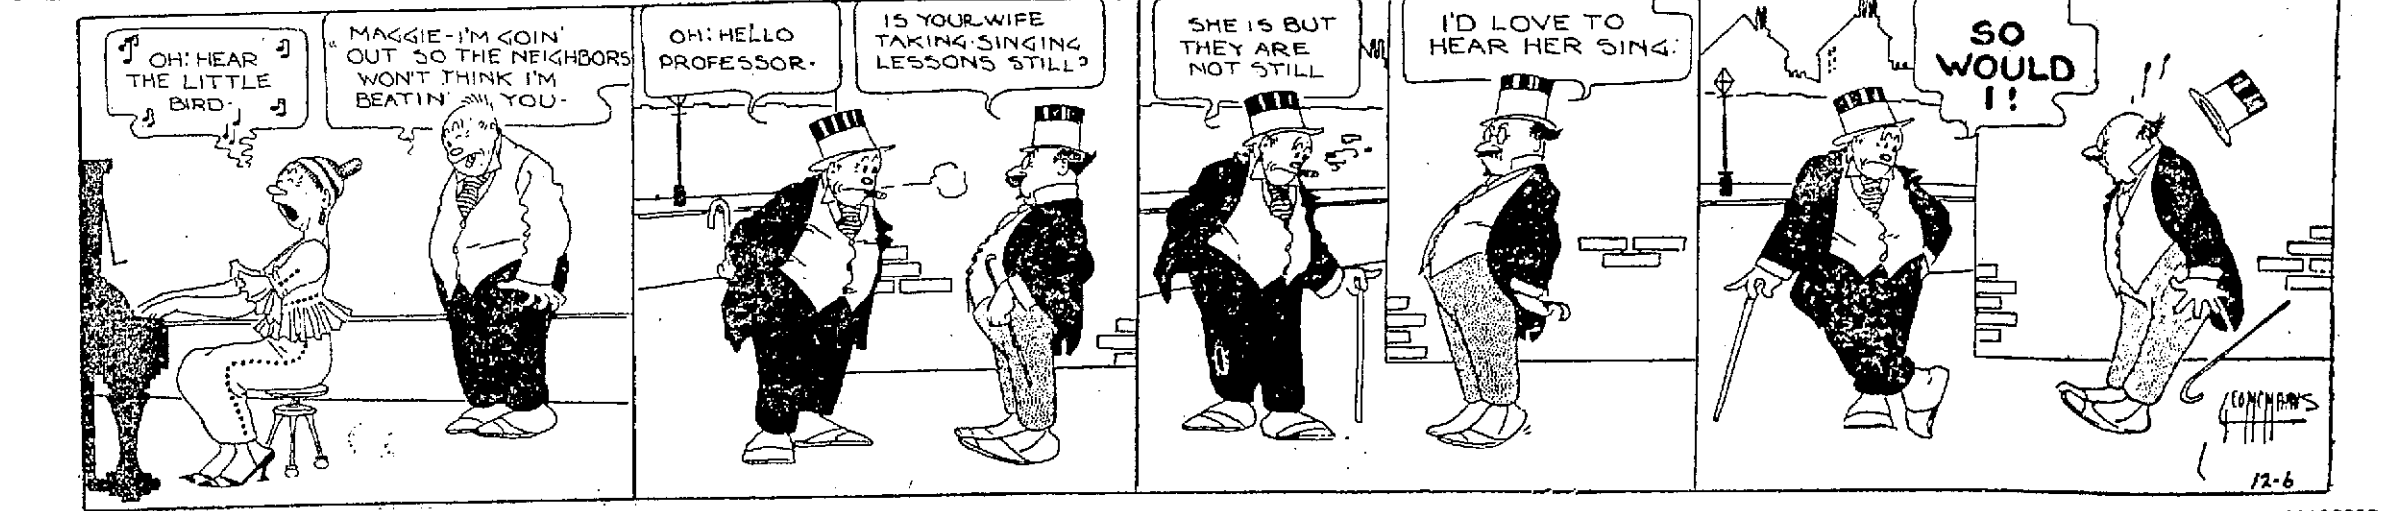

Sam and I stowed away in the boat whatever provender remained, and I assisted her to a seat at the stern, wrapping a blanket carefully about her body, for the night air in those dark shadows began to chill. I took possession of the oars myself, believing the negro would serve best as a lookout in the bow, and thus settled we headed the boat out through the tangle of trees toward the invisible river.

Suddenly we shot out through the screen of concealing boughs into the broader stream beyond. The light here in the open was better, and revealing little of our surroundings. Sam knelt, peering eagerly forward into the blackness, an occasional growl of his voice evidence of his presence. I doubt if I had taken a dozen strokes, my whole attention centered on my task, when the sudden rocking of the boat told me he had scrambled to his feet. Almost at the same instant my ears distinguished the sharp chugging of an engine straight ahead; then came his shout of alarm. "God A'mighty! Dar's de keelboat, sah. De's goin' ter ram us!"

I twisted about in my seat, caught a vague glimpse of the advancing shadow, and leaped to my feet, an oar gripped in my hands. Scarcely was I poised to strike when a speeding prow ripped into us, and I was catapulted into the black water. (TO BE CONTINUED.)
